Software Language Engineering

Proposed Dates and Outcomes

- Submission: 15 February 2023
- Notification to authors (first round): 15 April 2023
- Submission of revised papers (second round): 15 June 2023
- Notification to authors (second round): 15 August 2023
- Submission after second review: 15 October 2023
- Final acceptance: 15 November 2023
- Date of publication: 15 December 2023

Journal of Computer Languages

A single publication covering all areas of computer languages.

The Journal of Computer Languages (COLA) welcomes papers on all aspects of the design, implementation, and use of computer languages (specification, modelling, programming; textual or visual) and human-centric computing, from theory to practice.

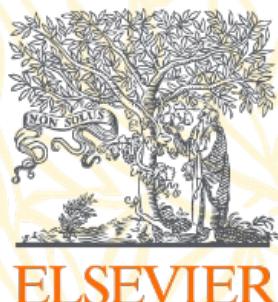

The journal publishes papers which describe original technical research, but also welcomes empirical studies and survey articles.

To read more or to submit your manuscript,
visit the journal homepage:

Best paper award

The Journal of Computer Languages will present the 2021 Best Paper Award to celebrate outstanding research. The winner of the award will receive a prize of $1000 USD and a certificate to reward their efforts. Visit our website to find out more.

Journal of Computer Languages

Research areas for the Journal of Computer Languages include:

- Block-based languages
- Cognitive, perceptive and motoric systems and models
- Compilers and interpreters
- Computational thinking
- Design and development of concurrent, distributed, parallel, quantum and sequential languages
- Domain-specific languages
- End-user development
- Generative approaches, meta-programming, meta-modelling
- Human aspects and psychology of designing languages
- Information visualization
- Interaction models and languages
- Location-based data and processes
- Language design and implementation
- Language-based security
- Language evolution, integration, composition, and coordination
- Language product lines
- Language workbenches, meta-languages and development frameworks
- Languages, models, and frameworks for visual analytics
- Languages for large-scale scientific computing
- Languages for software specification and verification
- Libraries, run-time environments and language ecosystems
- Modelling and programming languages
- Modularity and extensibility of language specifications and programming
- Parallel/distributed/neural computing and representations for visual information processing
- Pattern languages
- Pictorial systems and languages
- Program analysis and optimization
- Program comprehension
- Program visualization and animation
- Programming environments and tools
- Programming paradigms (agent-oriented, aspect-oriented, intermittent, etc.)
- Scientific visualization
- Scripting languages
- Semantics of computer languages
- Semantics-based verification
- Software language engineering
- Software visualization
- Type systems
- User interface design languages
- Visual languages and programming
